

DEFECTIVE HOSE AND LOW WATER PRESSURE AT FIRE

Residence of Byrd G. Farmer, North
Oates Street, Destroyed by Fire,
Entailing Loss of $17,500,
Partially Covered by Insurance.

Defective fire hose and low water pressure that would not be tolerated in many cities and towns, largely contributed to the destruction of the two-story residence of Byrd G. Farmer, North Oates street, by fire this morning about 4:10 o'clock despite the valiant but hopeless efforts of the firemen. The entire loss is estimated at $17,500, partially covered by insurance.

The alarm by telephone reached the station about 4:10 o'clock, and was answered by Fireman Jim Turner. The department rushed to the scene. Fire Chief Ziglar, who was at his home, was soon upon the ground, directing the work. Upon their arrival, Fireman Joe Rollins says the top of the house was a solid blaze, and that the fire is supposed to have started on the second floor. One report has it that the fire originated from an electric iron.

Following the breaks in four sections of hose, this necessitated Fire Chief Ziglar and his men having to change four times, thereby causing delay and losing valuable time, which is an important factor in coping with fires.

During the fire the water pressure from the station was only 50 pounds while under normal conditions it should have been 90.

The firemen did their best, but the odds were against them. When four sections of hose, each being 50 feet in length, burst, the work of the fire fighters was greatly handicapped. The breaks in the hose occurred while the water pressure was only 100 pounds, fifty being furnished by the power house and fifty by the engine on the combination fire truck.

In the days of the power station, and when a new one, modern in every respect, was being installed, citizens were led to believe that the erection of another power house and the installation of more machinery, would result in the city being equipped to furnish adequate water pressure in case of fires, but such was not the case. Tuesday morning at 4:10 o'clock.

While in his office today, Lawyer Byrd G. Farmer estimated the entire loss at $17,500 with the furniture fully covered by insurance. About forty per cent of the house was covered by insurance, he said.

Mr. Farmer had no comments to make on the fire. He said that he was busy caring for his wife, and that he did not have time to watch the maneuvers of the department, but that he heard the water pressure was very low.

Fire Monday Afternoon.
A servant's house at the rear of a residence owned by W. F. Newton, North Oates street, was destroyed by fire late yesterday afternoon. The loss is not known, but was probably not heavy.

WOMENS TRIALS IN EGYPT

Cairo, Egypt, July 21.—While a very few Egyptian women are married to men who have imbibed Western education for themselves, and have out of their own country the right to go shopping and to theatres and other public places unveiled, even these in their own land are cut off from all intercourse with men save those of their own household and never appear out of their own homes unless closely veiled.

Many of these women are highly educated, and pass examinations similar to those passed by their brothers and fathers; but their education is of little use to them, after they have left their schools or their governess, beyond making them bitterly discontented with their lot.

An Eastern man, however educated, never regards a woman as an equal. She is there, she is created for his needs, his pleasure. If it amuses her in youth to learn French and English, to know something of science and history, well, and good; but she belongs to another world from himself, and he would as soon think of discussing anything with her or taking her opinions seriously, as he would that of a certified lunatic.

Against this attitude of man the Egyptian woman is beginning to revolt. Those who have learned of history and art in their youth are making a valiant effort to continue their learning in later life, by forming little societies amongst themselves for mutual help and instruction, even arranging for lectures and papers to be read to them by Western women. But in this they are in no wise helped by their men, who think that woman's one and only function is to be made and mother and slave to man's comfort.

Amongst the lower classes it is the women who do the greater part of the work, while the men spend their days in luxurious idleness. For not only do women do the work of the houses—to dignify their small furnitureless, mud huts—who fetch the water from long distances, carrying their huge cantabased water jars on their heads, but they also work long hours in the fields, weeding, hoeing and planting.

There is no one place where can be seen side by side the commencing struggle of women for emancipation and their utter subservience to man's dominance and brutality so well as in the great hospitals of Cairo.

For in them are to be found the first instances of women endeavoring to secure a career of their own, since many young Egyptian women are being trained as Hakima, or nurses. They are drawn mostly from the lawyer or doctor class, and while many of them are very pretty and very intelligent, they are utterly unreliable, and do not know the meaning of truth. They lie

BIG LEAGUE BALL PLAYERS THREATEN STRIKE

New York, July 21.—With both sides breathing defiance, magnates of the American and National Baseball Leagues met here today to take steps to prevent a threatened strike of major league ball players. President Fultz of the Players Fraternity, declared the players are not bluffing and will walk out unless their grievances are adjusted.

Washington, July 21.—With the statement that he will appeal to his constituents for vindication, Congressman McDermott, of Illinois, resigned from the House today. McDermott stated his only offense was borrowing money from friends. He will stand for re-election.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Eincy, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work. I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16."

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.

CRAFT PRAISES LOCAL WORKERS

Prof. G. N. Mitcham of Auburn and John Craft, of Mobile, Greatly Pleased With Houston's Hard Roads.

"Your highways commission certainly deserves great credit for the rapid strides that have been made in good road building in this country. The roads are well constructed and are in keeping with the amount of money spent on them."

Such, in substance, were the sentiments of John Craft, of Mobile, who, with Prof. G. N. Mitcham, of Auburn, are investigating good road building in several counties for the Alabama Highways Commission. And to these expressions, Prof. Mitcham gave assent. He, too, was greatly impressed with Houston county's hard roads.

It was Prof. Mitcham who suggested to the State Highways Commission that a committee be appointed for the purpose of making an investigation with the end in view of promoting better highways in Alabama. The suggestion found favor with the commission and when it came to picking men for this important work Mr. Craft and Prof. Mitcham were selected.

Besides his work on this important committee, which will present its findings to the State Highways Commission, Mr. Craft is president of the Alabama Highways Commission. Prof. Mitcham is engaged in important work at Auburn.

SECOND DAY OF CAILLAUX TRIAL OPENED

Paris, July 21.—When the second day of the Caillaux trial opened Madame Caillaux began outlining her defense with an astuteness that surprised the spectators. She was alert and calm in contrast with emotional outbursts of yesterday.

Humane crowds about the court included many aristocratic women and members of the American colony.

M. Nelt, who conducted Madame Caillaux into Calmette's office on the night of the murder, told his story. He said she gave him a card in a sealed envelope. He took it to Calmette who seemed surprised when he read the name on the card. He instructed that she be ushered in at once. Five minutes later he heard several shots in the editor's office. Nelt ran in and found the office full of smoke, and Calmette lying spraddled on the floor, while Madame Caillaux still held the revolver. Nelt said he started to run, but she told him not to be afraid; that she had merely done justice. The prisoner was tightly during this recital.

Boargest Testifies
Paul Boargest, the famous playwright and novelist, took the stand and condemned Madame Caillaux's plea of the "unwritten law." Attorney Laboulaye, for the prisoner, then read extracts from Boargest's novels upholding the unwritten law. The witness explained that theories advanced in books could not be applied to real life.

The court is most considerate of the prisoner, and Calmette's friends accuse Judge Almond of favoritism. The crowd in the courtroom made a hostile demonstration when the defendant's husband took the stand. Attacks of The Le Figaro were fired slowly, showing the deliberate aim taken by the woman.

TEACHERS FOR LIFE.

Savannah News.

Very few of the young men and women who take up school teaching as an occupation intend to make it their life work. They look upon it as a means of temporary support and propose to abandon it when something better, financially, offers. Can it be that young women who go into the class rooms of the public schools do so merely to have an income that will tide them over the period of waiting until the "right man" comes along? Surely nobody wishes to deny them the privilege of getting married when they please.

Whatever the reasons for it may be, the fact remains that the average time spent as teachers by men and women who begin that work is very short. It is only a few years at best. Perhaps it is a shorter time than it would be if a greater per cent. of teachers were men, as marriage does not, as a rule, end a man's career as a teacher but it nearly always does a woman's. Anyhow there are few persons who take up teaching expecting to continue it indefinitely, and of course the constant dropping out of experienced teachers and the breaking in of large numbers of inexperienced ones hinders the development of the schools to some extent.

Dr. E. M. Potant of Greenville, S. C., in the commencement sermon at the Georgia State Normal School the other day said that the "great defect in our American system of education, especially Southern education, is that teaching is not a calling for life, that the teacher too often puts in two or three years to pay out of debt contracted in a college course or as a mere makeshift till something else turns up. The reason for that is of course the small pay of teachers. Young men and women who are well enough educated to be worth while as teachers are usually ambitious to earn more than they could hope to earn in most cases, as teachers. Especially is that true of young men. It can be set down as certain that as long as the pay of teachers is as small as it is there will be many desertions from their ranks.

If Georgia hopes to get the services of the same teachers for twenty years or more she will have to make it worth their while, and even if their pay is raised matrimony is certain to sweep many of the women from the ranks. The young men and women can hardly be criticized for adopting teaching as a stepping stone to better things as long as the pay of the profession puts it in the stepping stone class. The outlook is that the average pay of Georgia teachers will slowly increase from year to year for a long time. Local taxation for schools is becoming more popular and few elections are lost that are called to decide the question of special district or county taxation for schools. After a while in Georgia there may be on that account a great number of teachers for life.

RECOMMENDING THE HELPLESS.

Emporia (Kan) Gazette.

That the world is growing better in many ways is conceded by all. In no way is this more conspicuous than in the increasing humanitarianism which are upheld and supported by the best people, in and out of the church today. One may search the chronicles of the highest civilization of the Greek and Roman world and never find a trace of sympathy or concern for the unfortunate and afflicted. We may well thank God that we were not born in the age of Pericles or Virgil. There were no homes for the blind, the friendless, or feeble-minded children. The last were usually left to perish, by order of the state.

Charitable provisions for the homeless old people and dependent afflicted of all ages in one of the gratifying signs of this age; institutions supported by the state are in every civilized country, where everything is done that skill and science can devise to relieve suffering, on the part of those who are unable to make any remuneration for such treatment.

Individuals have given large sums to endow homes, orphanages, asylums and hospitals, for those unable to pay their way when in need of treatment. This change in the world's attitude towards need and suffering is due to the teaching and mind of Jesus of Nazareth, which in being more practical.

This change is likewise seen in the treatment of dumb animals. No one can be a Christian, after the pattern of Christ, and be indifferent to the needless suffering of animals. In many of the states organizations exist which are doing splendid work. The National Humane Society, with headquarters in Boston, Mass., has some of the best known men and women of our country as members and officers. Former President W. H. Taft, Vice President T. R. Marshall, and Mrs. Russell Sage, are among the vice presidents. Mrs. Sage has recently given $10,000 to be used in protecting birds from slaughter. This is a growing reform, and one which is increasingly receiving the encouragement and cooperation of good people in every town and community. Unless one is situated to learn, he has no idea of the amount of abuse and ill treatment to which children are subjected, by cruel parents, and thoughtless guardians in the best communities. If none of these things were published, which it probably is not wise to do, it would certainly arouse a lethargic public to a sense of their duty to support a Humane Society, and those trying to render service along humanitarian lines.

DOTHAN'S EXORBITANT STORE RENTS.

There is a great deal of complaint from merchants of Dothan about high store rents. These complaints are just too, for store rents are too high here and the landlords some of them, are lacking on all more beginning September the 1st.

The truth might as well be told: merchants cannot make ends meet much less lay up a little profit at the end of the year for a rainy day, and pay in addition to other operating expenses, the exorbitant rents charged by Dothan landlords.

It does look like the owners of store buildings would see that in exacting an exorbitant rent they will drive the merchants away, thereby hurting the town and themselves.

Some of the tenants say they have managed to about play even on the present rents, but have been notified by the landlords of another raise the first of September, in some instances twenty-five per cent.

One high class firm carrying a special line and occupying a small building has been paying $100 a month rent. The manager says they have made expense only one week this year. They are now selling out and will leave Dothan.

Others will be forced to leave, for there is not a merchant in Dothan doing the volume of business to justify the rent he has to pay.

Shakespeare makes one of his characters say, "We may by violent swiftness outrun that for which we run, and lose by overrunning."

May not the Dothan landlord by exorbitant rent charges defeat the end for which he aims (fair return on investment) and lose by overcharging?

MONEY IS NOT MOST IMPORTANT THING.

These Iowa clubwomen who want a law permitting no couple to get married unless they have at least $200 are, we fear, fooled by a half-truth.

The important thing in getting married is for the right man to find the right woman.

Money is desirable, but secondary.

When the right man meets and marries the right woman, he will work for her, she will work for him, both will work for their children and somehow, barring exceptional misfortune, the money factor will take care of itself.

It's not at all bad discipline for love's young dream to have to laugh on a basis of economy and mutual sacrifice.

More marriages are spoiled by beginning with too much than with too little.

One of the happiest old grandpas we ever knew told us that he and his bride ate their first meal as life partners on a board stretched across two barrels. And it wasn't because the furniture hadn't come, either. That and a stove and a bed and two chairs, plus a few cracked dishes, were all the furniture they owned.

Their scantiness of material belongings drew them together: he hoisted, she saved and they became prosperous—but riches didn't spoil 'em.

A law making it possible for a man and woman in love to have a fair chance to work, earn and save would be a fine law, if enforced.

But no money minimum for matrimony.—Pensacola Journal.

SPORTING NEWS

By Frank G. Wrenke.

New York, July 21.—Champion ship ring battles about as usual, but drawing as large gates as they used to in the old days. The young generation of fighters is thought that the $100,000 gate is the recent Jackson Frank Morin fight in Paris was a rather sizeable one but it was nothing to get excited about when the facts are taken into consideration that this was a championship battle and that it was staged in a country that was viewing a heavyweight champion ship fight for the first time.

The Jeffries Johnson fight in Reno on July 1, 1910, drew the biggest gate in history, $270,755, not including the money realized from the moving pictures which is said to have been something like $85,000. Of this amount Jeffries got $110,000 and Johnson about $100,000.

Jim Corbett and Kid McCoy drew a five count scrap in Madison Square Garden many years ago and the gate amounted to nearly $57,000.

Corbett and Jeffries drew a $100,000 gate when they met in San Francisco in 1910, in their second battle.

The Sharkey Jeffries fight staged in Coney Island in 1910, and which Jeffries won, drew $60,000. Fitzsimmons' wonderful fighter that he was never drew well. The biggest gate for a fight in which he figured was a little over $10,000—the fight with Tom Hall in New Orleans. It has been said that Fitz never got his share of this gate and that he fought for almost nothing.

The Corbett Fitzsimmons fight in Carson City, Nevada, in which Fitz took the championship away from Gentleman Jim, drew only $22,000. Fitz got less than $5,000 as his share.

Fitz and Sharkey drew $21,000 when they met in El Paso in 1905—the battle which Fitz lost on a foul punch and Gus Ruhlin drew over $20,000 when they battled in the same town a short time later.

The Joe Gans Battling Nelson bout in Goldfield, Nevada, in 1909, drew $19,717, the record for a lightweight battle. The Nelson Jimmy Britt fight at Colma, Cal., drew $18,111, another huge figure for a lightweight fight and one that hasn't been approached for many years.

Jimmy Coffey, the Dublin Giant, wants a fight with Jack Johnson. Coffey came from Ireland to New York some years ago, became a wayward, whopped a few rowdies, who landed his tin, and then took up the fighting game and the teaching of Mike Donovan, the old middleweight warrior.

Coffey, in the opinion of those who have seen him in his New York bouts still is too inexperienced for a fight with Johnson. Coffey has quite a punch, is finely built and has a lot of courage, but he isn't a boxer by any means.

It is said that Richard Croker, the old Tammany leader, has agreed to back Coffey to the extent of $10,000 if the fight is staged in Ireland. Coffey's manager, Billy O'Donoghue, is spending quite a lot of money coaching Coffey to Johnson.

The Johnson Lingford scrap that is to be staged in London in October ought to clear the pugilistic atmosphere somewhat. For about four years Lingford has been abouting for a chance at Johnson and declaring it would be a cinch for him to whip the Big Smoke. Johnson has a reputation with remarks about you get a reputation you shut in such class.

There has been bitter enmity between the two negro heavyweights for many years and pugilistic experts predict that if the fight is staged it really will be a fight—and to the bitter finish.

Those who have seen both Chip and McCoy in their fights before and since then declare that Chip is far better boxer and biter than McCoy and that if they meet again there will be nothing to it but Chip McCoy stacked up against Murray in two fights in New York and the opinion of the fans was that Murray outpointed McCoy on both occasions.

And then Chip came along and knocked out Murray after having him helpless almost from the start of the battle.

MORRIS-FIELD WEDDING—

Quite a surprise to their many friends was the wedding of Mr. John S. Fields, of Eastman, Ga., to Miss Mamie Morris, of Florida, which occurred today at high noon at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. R. L. Morris, Rev. H. H. McNeill performing the ceremony. The reception hall and parlor were attractively decorated in ferns, palms and southern smilax.

The bridesmaid, Miss Maydee Crawford and the maid of honor, Miss Emma Morris, sister of the bride from Cuthbert, Ga., were beautifully attired in white lingerie dresses and carried arm bouquets of brides roses and ferns. White lace hats finished their effective toilettes.

The bride was never prettier than when she was attired in her wedding suit of Copenhagen blue faille with accessories to match. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and valley lilies. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. R. L. Morris.

The groom was attended by Mr. W. J. Boyett, of Cuthbert, Ga., as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields left immediately on the 1:20 A. C. L. train for the mountains of Tennessee for a stay of several days.

Mr. Fields is manager of the express company in Eastman, Ga., where they will make their home.

THOUGHTS FOR THE DAY—

Oh, you mysterious girls, when you are fifty-two we shall find you out, all the meanness your youth concealed have been gathering in your face. But the pretty thoughts and sweet ways and dear, forgotten kindnesses linger there also, to bloom in your twilight like evening primroses.—J. M. Harris.

WOMAN'S TRIALS IN EGYPT

about things that do not matter, and while they are kind to their patients, cheerfully make utterly false reports and statements about them, oblivious or indifferent to the fact that the doctor may be mystified or utterly misled.

Their dress in hospitals is pretty and graceful, of blue cotton, with white aprons and caps, and dainty white veils bound about their heads leaving their smiling young faces uncovered.

They are mostly very superstitious, being deeply afraid of "afreets" (evil spirits), and in their dormitories herd closely together, as if in this way they believe the dreaded afreets are more easily repelled. In passing, it may be mentioned that they have to be closely locked into their rooms, while their windows are barred, as, brought up strictly "purdah" though they are, they are not to be trusted for an instant, and would escape for an adventure if given the least opportunity.

But they are at the beginning of things, and insofar as they have made the first steps towards emancipation and making a career for themselves, they may be regarded as pioneers of their sex, and their faults forgiven, while their many good qualities of cheerfulness, good temper, and kindness, be universally admitted.

On the other side of the picture is the woman patient, who exemplifies her relation to man by her utter passivity and indifference under terrible suffering when occasioned by man's cruelty.

Many of them come into the hospitals for the birth of their children, and as many of them have been kicked, and beaten into deformity, their sufferings are horrible. But never does a word of complaint cross their lips. They lie in stoical endurance, after operation or illness their great beautiful dark eyes looking up with unfathomable pathos, without one word of complaint. Their whole attitude is one of "malaksh"—nothing matters. It is the will of Allah, therefore, it is idle to kick against the stings.

In another department of the hospital the fondling ward, is shown up a less commendable side of the nature of the poorer class of Egyptian women, who, rendered indifferent by suffering to her own lot is callously indifferent to that of her offspring.

In this one ward alone there are annually taken from 120 to 150 small babies, ranging from a few minutes to 48 hours old, who have been thrown out into the streets wrapped in a piece of newspaper or old cloth and utterly deserted. Most of these die before the year is out, even if they cannot help those who are still struggling through generation with disease, and those who are generally adopted by some childless woman. For amongst the ignorant natives, the idea is universally accepted that the only chance a woman has of entering heaven is to bear a child. Therefore, if by any unlucky chance she is barren, she hopes that by adopting a child she may still gain heaven by a back entrance.

But the Egyptian woman is knocking at the door which her Western sister has already thrust wide open and those who have crossed the threshold must wish well, even if they cannot help those who are still struggling through generations of repressions and tyranny and degradation to come into the light from the cradle.

Ten Acres And Freedom!

FREEDOM from the fear that the Boll Weevil will wipe the money crop of the farmers—

FREEDOM from the slavery of confining office work making men and women old before their time—

FREEDOM from cares that come from fear of not having an ample income in old age—

FREEDOM from tasks imposed on one by the man who pays the salary—

FREEDOM from being deprived of pleasures that are clean, invigorating and man-making—

FREEDOM from every undesirable condition now imposed on men and women by the necessity of providing the creature comforts.

Looks entrancing, doesn't it?

The fact is that it is far more entrancing than it looks—better far than words can describe.

The Ten Acres can be secured from this company and the Freedom will be the result to the purchaser.

The TEN ACRES is located in the heart of the famous Palm Beach County, Florida, Green Fruit Ridge, on which more than 9800 other intelligent, ambitious, industrious people have bought in the past eighteen months. We are offering a few of these ten acre tracts to Southeast Alabama people, and they are buying them every day. Other people who bought eighteen months ago have paid for their land the first year and have money besides. Any intelligent, industrious man or woman can do the same.
